READ

THE INTRODUCTION

—AND—

EXPLANATORY NOTES!!

It seems to be the opinion of a certain class of people that an INTRODUCTION is written merely to occupy a few pages in the first part of the book, to make it appear like other books, or, for any purpose except for the purpose of being read! They could not labor under a greater mistake, for, when they omit the introduction, they omit much valuable and interesting information.

It usually contains subjects of general interest, not particularly connected with any single individual or family, but of interest to the general reader.

Many questions have been asked the compilers by those who have had the Lee Book in hand from its publication in 1897, on subjects fully explained in the introductory notes, and were surprised on being informed where they could find their questions fully answered, thus showing that they had neglected that part of the work.

Others have inquired the use of the figures at the commencement, and in the body of a personal paragraph, and also the use of a * attached to names in the family records, all of which are fully explained in various notes in that work, and duplicated in this. It is intended that nothing shall be left obscure if the reader will read the explanations.

JOHN LEE.

The circumstances of the immigration of our ancestor, JOHN LEE, in 1634, and the early history of his family, as far as known, are fully narrated in the genealogy of "John Lee of Farmington, Conn., and His Descendants," published in May, 1897, and need not be repeated here.

The words, "of Farmington, Conn.," were inserted in the title in order to distinguish it in the public catalogues from "John Lee of Ipswich, Mass.," who came to this country from England, about the same time, and whose genealogy was published in 1888.

Notes of the Deacon Stephen Hart family—Mary (Hart) Lee, wife of John Lee,—may also be found in the introduction of the same work.

HISTORICAL.

When the genealogy of "John Lee of Farmington, Conn., and His Descendants,"—known among those interested as the "Lee Book"—was published containing more than 4,000 names, it was estimated that there were at least 1,000 descendants of whom we had no account, notwithstanding the most diligent research.

Soon after the middle of the 18th century, there seems to have been a large emigration from Connecticut to Vermont, and the Lees contributed their full quota. Governor Benning Wentworth, British governor of New Hampshire, by which Vermont was then claimed to be a part, had been liberal in making land grants as early as 1760.

Among those who migrated before the close of the century, encouraged by these grants, are found the names of Col. Noah Lee of Salisbury to Castleton in 1766,—Zebulon Lee from Willington to Hartland in 1770,—Daniel and Jedediah Lee, sons of Elias,—see p. 403-14, Lee Book,—from Willington to Pittsford, about 1783, and about 1797, to Stanstead, Canada,—Deacon Seth Lee of Farmington, to Ludlow in 1796,—David Lee from Becket, Mass., to Manchester, 1777 to 1779, and probably others. The name of Josiah Lee,—p. 403-14, Lee Book,—is found on record in the Adj. General's office, as having performed military service in the Revolutionary War, although no trace of his posterity has been found, if he left any. There are also strong reasons to believe that Simon, the youngest brother migrated with the others.

HOW THEY BECAME LOST TO FRIENDS.

At that time, transportation over a new and rugged country was slow and difficult and almost entirely by private conveyance. Mail facilities were also meager and infrequent, postage was high and communication between friends took place only at long intervals.

In time, older generations, who knew anything personally of kindred left in the old state, passed away and the next generation having no personal acquaintance with them, and perhaps knowing little about them otherwise, still further neglected communication and by the third generation, the story of their former home and kindred had passed into tradition, and few there were who could tell anything of their own origin.

BECAME SCATTERED.

As years rolled on, many of the descendants of those who settled in Vermont became widely dispersed throughout the whole country, and may now be found in almost every State in the Union and of those who passed beyond the national boundary into Canada, large numbers of their descendants found their way back to the States and claimed citizenship under the government from which their ancestors migrated, many years before.

Many of them were educated in American colleges, some became American missionaries, while others took up arms in defense of the Union.

THE DISCOVERY.

In January, 1898, Rev. William Henry Lee, a native of Massachusetts, but of a Stanstead family beyond the boundary of Vermont, residing at that time at South Shaftsbury, Vermont, from reading the published account of the "Lee Gathering," of 1884, prepared by William Wallace Lee, became convinced that he belonged to one of the "lost families" of the Farmington Lees. A correspondence with the author of the work, secretary of the "Lee Association," and others, and a comparing of notes, soon established the connection beyond a doubt, and the work of collecting family records for this supplement was taken up and vigorously pursued. Stanstead and many other records were consulted, cemeteries visited, and correspondence entered upon with kindred in various states from the Province of Quebec and New England to California. Wm. H. Lee pursued the work of collecting records in his own family line, meeting with success beyond his sanguine expectations.

Meantime the secretary and compiler were not idle. A slight clue was obtained by Wm. Wallace Lee to the descendants of Zebulon Lee, and no efforts were spared to follow it out. Willington ancient cemetery and town records were consulted and also the town records and ancient cemetery at Hartland, Vermont. Copies of records were obtained from the office of the Adjutant General in Vermont, and pension rolls and other records at Washington and in Massachusetts were personally examined by the compiler and no items of interest omitted.

There are families whose records are imperfect and many fragments are published, hoping that publicity may result in farther discovery.

It is difficult to realize the arduous task of investigating ancient records without actual experience. Many of them are mutilated or half obliterated, many pages are half gone, others are entirely missing, and again, after hours of research nothing of importance is obtained.

ERRORS.

The venerable State Librarian of Connecticut,—Hon. Charles A. Hoadley, an eminent authority on history and genealogy, has said that “a perfect genealogy has never yet been published.”

The remarks on the subject in the Lee Book are equally applicable to the Supplement, and the substance will bear repeating. It is absurd to expect that a work composed so largely of figures and statistics, will be entirely free from errors.

When an individual obtains a copy of the family genealogy, he usually turns to his own record first, and if the slightest error is found, he is disposed to make the compiler the object of his wrath, without stopping to consider that it may be the result of his own carelessness in the manuscript which was furnished. Of the hundreds of names,—or even thousands,—which are written, the compiler cannot be supposed to be personally acquainted with five per cent. of them, perhaps with less than two per cent. and of the few, he may know little or nothing of their data except what is furnished to him, and with the utmost vigilance, errors will escape his notice. Many errors are the result of imperfect manuscript, for which the compiler cannot be held responsible,—manuscript from which it is impossible to distinguish whether the name is intended for Charles or Chester—Olive or Oliver or Olivia—Jane or Irene—Elihu or Elisha—Jan. or June,—and similar errors are found among figures, and sometimes a typographical error may escape the closest scrutiny. Scores of letters have been written for corrections, but have seldom received any attention. In one instance, four records of one family were received from as many different sources and no two were alike! The spelling of proper names is written as furnished unless known to be incorrect. One instance of fault finding is given of a lady who declared that she would never have purchased a copy if she had known that the names of her children had been omitted. Investigation proved that her children were not born when the records were furnished.

Few genealogical works of importance are found without pages of corrections. Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, a standard work, consisting of four volumes, contains in the aggregate 2323 pages, with 103 pages of corrections, while many other works contain a proportionate number, all of which shows the almost utter impossibility of publishing a perfect work of this kind.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS.

On page 486 of the Lee Book an invitation is extended to all to furnish corrections, changes, additions, etc. A large number have availed themselves of the opportunity while others have neglected it. Some have furnished important additions and historical items, all of which have been accepted and have been utilized.

The invitation is repeated to all,—to communicate anything of importance,—births, marriages, deaths, new discoveries, or family historical items of interest, either to the Secretary of the Lee Association or the compiler, to be preserved for future use.

PICTURE GALLERY.

A limited number of portraits were solicited for insertion in this work, not so much for the benefit of the present generation as for posterity, and which may be expected to be more highly prized by each successive generation.

Monuments are erected to preserve the memory of friends, and portraits are presumed to maintain a memory of their features. A larger number would have been acceptable.

PERSONAL MENTION.

It would have been gratifying to mention something of various individuals who maintain important positions in their own community, with brief personal sketches.

Some have been obtained only after persistent effort, some have been furnished by friends, and in other cases no response was obtained to inquiries. All items of importance which were received were utilized.

In collecting material for this work the compiler would render particular acknowledgments to William Henry Lee, of Wichita, Kansas, formerly of Vermont, and Wm. Wallace Lee, of Meriden, Conn., for valuable assistance rendered.

Many others there are who have manifested a deep interest in the family history, and have furnished valuable data, but to draw a line of distinction would be a delicate task. Acknowledgment of their service will be found under personal paragraphs.

FINANCIAL.

From the limited circulation of family genealogies, the cash receipts seldom pay the expenses of publication unless supplemented by liberal personal donations from enterprising individuals. This work, though not large has been expensive and the result of severe labor and research.

No one rendering service in its preparation has received or expects to receive any compensation therefor, nor is any margin expected on the work. No one who gives the subject a thought, can reasonably expect under such circumstances, that the committee of publication, or those having the work in charge, to advance the necessary funds for publication, or assume a liability for the expense, while others should feel the same interest in their family history. Other works of this kind are often sustained by pledges of many hundreds of dollars to carry them through, to pay salaries and for clerical work, while this has been an enterprise entirely voluntary, depending upon the liberality of the kindred to assist in bearing the burden.

The price named for the volume must be a low figure, that every family, however indigent, may feel able to possess a copy. Hence, a small contribution has been solicited from those who were supposed to feel an interest in the work. It is to be regretted that several of those who professed great enthusiasm on the subject turned a cold shoulder as soon as approached on the financial question, although abundantly able to contribute, while others have been generous according to their means.

Sales from the few volumes of the Lee Book remaining on hand have been appropriated to this object. Some have shown their liberality by purchasing copies for friends, or public libraries, and others by their donations, all of which were equally acceptable. It may be added that several of those who were liberal contributors towards the publication of the Lee Book of 1897, have voluntarily contributed towards this work, which goes to press with a prospective deficiency, for which the publishing committee will become responsible, unless provision is otherwise made.

CONCLUSION.

The question may be asked why the compiler assumed the task of Historian of the Farmington Lee family? The reply is "because he was solicited to do so," and the reasons leading up to that solicitation may be found on page 9 of the Lee Book. No one seemed available who had the leisure and inclination for such work. If the family history was ever to be written, it seemed almost imperative that it should be entered upon at once, while many of the older generations were present, and could furnish many unrecorded facts of interest, and also that existing generations might have the benefit as soon as practicable.

The same inquiry as the above might be made in reference to this SUPPLEMENT, and nearly the same reply would be applicable.

Having become somewhat familiar with the general history of the family, and having also made the personal acquaintance of many individuals in various states, it seemed fitting that a continuation of the same work should be continued by the same writer.

The task has been performed under most adverse circumstances, the correspondence being carried on largely while sojourning in California and Florida during the winter months, and from other states during the summer, while the writing out has been performed whenever opportunity occurred. No available opportunities have been neglected to call upon individuals, personally, for information and to interest them in the subject of their own family history.

Many days have been spent in verifying copy, but it would be presumptuous to believe that no little mistake has escaped the eye of the compiler, or that the work contains no errors.

The kind reader will criticize leniently, bearing in mind that every stroke of the pen has been gratuitous, as well as attendant expenses, and the task undertaken at a period of life when most men seek retirement, and that a work containing an occasional error, typographical or otherwise, may be better than none.

Such as it is, the reader now has it before him. If it awakens any desire to pursue the subject farther, there is an abundant field for operation, for it is estimated there are still several hundreds whose whereabouts are unknown. If it shall contribute to the knowledge of the general family history, or to interest the present or future generations, the object of the compiler will have been accomplished.

OTHER LEE FAMILIES.

In addition to the twelve Lee families of English extraction, who migrated to this country, previous to, or during the eighteenth century, which are noted in "John Lee and His Descendants," pp. 26, 27 and 28, may be named the following :

- XIII. NATHANIEL LEE, born in Dublin, Ireland, of English parentage, 1695—was a commissioned officer in the British army,—joined in a revolt at the accession of George I to the throne of England,—his property was confiscated and he fled to America about 1725,—settled near Fish-kill on the Hudson River, N. Y.,—died 1793, aged 98
1725 years. Himself and wife were buried at Dover, N. Y. His descendants removed to Yates Co., N. Y., and became prominent in that part of the state. One son was an officer in the Revolutionary War, and other descendants did service in the War of 1812-1815, and in the Confederate War. Dr. Joshua Lee, member of Congress, was of this family. Bradner W. Lee, Esq., Attorney at Law, of Los Angeles Cal., is also a descendant of this family.
- XIV. THOMAS LEE, (son of Francis Lee,) born 1710, migrated from the Island of Barbadoes to South Carolina in 1735. His father, Francis Lee, came from Shropshire, England, some years previous to 1710,—precise date not known. Three of Thomas' sons were officers in the Revolutionary War, two of whom were captured by the 1735 British. His descendants have lived in the Southern States mostly,—some of whom have been numbered among the prominent citizens of Charleston. A large number served with distinction in the Confederate army. Abram M. Lee, a prominent lawyer of Charleston is a descendant of this family. The South Carolina branches of this family have a genealogical tree of great ingenuity.

- XV. WILLIAM LEE, came from England in 1760, at the age of 14 years,—settled in Beaver County, Penn., (now Lawrence Co.,)—was a soldier in the Revolutionary Army eight years,—son, William, Jun., moved to Columbiana Co., near New Lisbon, Ohio,—grand-son, John W. Lee, now (1899) resides at Burbank, near Los Angeles, Cal.—sons, Henry M. Lee & Brother, Job Printers, 2nd street, Los Angeles, Cal.
- 1760
- XVI. JAMES LEE, was a soldier in the British army during the Revolutionary War,—was captured with the army of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va., Oct. 19, 1781,—was released, married a Hessian woman and returned to England,—sailed again for this country on a British man-of-war, and when in Chesapeake Bay. their first child, John, was born. Receiving a grant of land in Canada from the British crown, he settled in that country, where many of his descendants still remain, while large numbers have become citizens of the United States, some of whom reside in Evanstown, Ill., (1899.)
- 1782
- XVII. GEORGE LEE, emigrated from County Donegal, Ireland, in 1784,—of English extraction, in the 16th century,—landed at Wilmington, Delaware, after a voyage of two months,—some years later, passed on to Pennsylvania and in 1822 moved to Ohio. His descendants may now be found scattered throughout the west, several of whom have taken orders in the Protestant Episcopal Church. A neat little pamphlet of 47 pages was published by Rev. John Newton Lee, D. D., of Waukegan, Ill., in 1898,—a work of much interest for the family.

- 170— 25 "JOSIAH LEE, married Mary Christophers, Nov, 6, 1774," (New London Records.) It was an error in attributing this marriage to Josiah, p. 403--18. In the will of his father, Dr. Isaac Lee, made in 1777, and to be found in Probate Records, he mentions "my son Josiah, now in captivity," and as no trace of him has ever been found, it is probable that he died a prisoner of war.
- 173— 14 The old house of Dea. Josiah Lee, 14, a cut of which may be seen on p. 173,—supposed to have been built previous to 1730,—was torn down in Aug, 1899.
- 179— 36 ELIZABETH, dau. of Dea. Josiah Lee, 14, of New Britain, and wife of Gen. John Paterson, died at Spencerport, N. Y., July 9, 1841, aged 92 years. In May, 1892, the remains of herself and husband were removed from Lisle, N. Y. to Lenox, Mass., and furnished with suitable head-stones, and a monument of granite erected in front of their former home. Their burial was attended with military honors and an oration was delivered on the occasion. A "Life of Gen. John Patterson," was published in 1894 by a great grandson, Thomas Eggleston, L. L. D.
- 189—141 MRS. FRANCIS V. (PATERSON) WOODBURY,—gr. dau. of Gen. Paterson, was living in Pasadena, Cal., with her son, Frederick J., in 1899, aged 88 years, believed to be the eldest survivor of the Stephen branch.

Co., Ohio, it was learned that there was a tradition in the town that he was foully murdered and robbed in April, 1825, by the landlord of the hotel where he lodged, whose name was Irving, and his accomplices. Several old citizens were interviewed, who were boys at the time and well remembered the circumstances. Although it created a great excitement, no proof sufficient to convict the murderers could be obtained. Information of his death was sent to his friends, and that the sale of the horse and saddle which he rode produced barely enough to cover burial expenses. It is reported that he had $3,000 with him.

LONGEVITY. It is believed that the per centage of longevity of the Farmington family of Lees will fully average that of other American families. At the present writing, October—1899—there are known to be more than twenty-five survivors who have reached the age of 80 years and upwards, six of whom are grandchildren of Timothy Lee—p. 218—23—of the sixth generation, while there are several survivors of 90 years and upwards. Several have passed away within a few years, at 90 to 98 years of age.

READ EXPLANATIONS!!

A * attached to a name indicates that the individual is carried forward to the succeeding generation, and made the subject of a paragraph, with a corresponding number, with full-faced figures.

A number attached to a name in the body of a paragraph, refers to a parent, having the same number in a preceding generation and paragraph. A line of ancestry may be traced back to the beginning by referring from one number back to a corresponding number, and thence back again to any generation, or a line may be traced forward in a similar manner.

Where no family name is given, Lee is to be understood—other names than Lee are expressed.

Under the several generations are both parents and children, but the number of the generation in the heading, refers to the children.

ABBREVIATIONS: b.—born; d.—died; dau.—daughter; m.—married; P. Q.—Province of Quebec. When no State is named, the State of Connecticut is to be understood; other States take the usual abbreviations. Lee Book—"John Lee, of Farmington, Conn., and His Descendants." Sup.—Supplement.

DESCENDANTS OF DAVID,

YOUNGEST SON OF

JOHN LEE¹.

Lebanon. Coventry. 2nd Gen.

6. DAVID, youngest son of John, 1, and Mary (Hart) Lee, was born at Farmington, in 1674. On the marriage of his mother to Jedediah Strong, Jan. 5, 1692, he, aged 18, and his youngest sister, Tabitha, aged 16, accompanied her to Northampton, Mass., which was his future home for many years. He was a weaver by trade; married Lydia Strong, dau. of his stepfather, Sept. 5, 1695, born Nov. 9, 1675. Her mother was Freedom Woodward, dau. of Henry, of Dorchester, Mass., and afterwards of Northampton, where he was one of the "Pillars of the Church."

David removed with his family to Coventry, Conn., in 1709, in company with others from Northampton, who were among the first settlers of the town, which, however, was not incorporated till 1711. His wife died July 16, 1718. He married for his second wife, May 17, 1719, Elizabeth —— (name illegible on the records of Coventry.) He removed to Lebanon about 1729, and was admitted to "full communion" in the church Feb. 28, 1731. "He was regarded as a man of eminent godliness."

Jan. 28, 1728-9, "in consideration of a deed of exchange, for land in Coventry," John Lyman deeds to him, by quit claim deed, "all my farm or lot of land, lying and being in Lebanon, at a place called Lebanon Village, * * * bounded north easterly on y^e street that goeth through y^e village, northwesterly on land of Mr. Cushman, southwesterly on land of Ebenezer Gillett, and southeasterly on land of s^d Gillett and Isaac Bailey." No length of lines, nor number of acres is given.

Aug. 15, 1737, he deeds the same land with the same description to his son David, in exchange for land in Coventry. A thorough examination of records, both town and church, failed to furnish anything of importance concerning him. He died in 1759, aged 85 years. The place of his burial is uncertain, as no tombstone has been found in any of the old cemeteries. Children :

7. JEDEDIAH, eldest son of David, 6, and Lydia (Strong) Lee, born Feb. 1, 1697, at Northhampton, Mass., married, Sept. 6, 1722, Lucee, or Lucy Dodge. He was a farmer at Willington, where he died in 1748. His property was inventoried at £925-13. His wife and eldest son, Elias, were executors of his will, appointed April 11, 1748. "At a Court of Probate held in Hartford, Feb. 9, 1754, Elias Lee, of Willington, guardian to Oliver, Zebulon and Simon, sons of Jedediah, prayed for the distribution of the estate according to will of deceased, viz. : To Josiah, Jedediah, deceased (or his legal representatives) Oliver, Zebulon and Simon." He was appointed guardian of the minor children July 3, 1750.

The date of Lucee's death has not been ascertained, but Elias, admr. of her estate, presented to court an inventory for £177-6-6 June 13, 1750.

May 29, 1751, presented his account.

NOTE.—Thus far has been copied from "John Lee and His Descendants," published in 1897, of which this is a Supplement. The descendants of Jedediah (7) were among the "lost families" at that time, and information concerning them was largely fragmentary and traditional, and, as the sequel proved, very unreliable. What has now been collected has been done largely through his direct descendants, and from public and private records, and is deemed more reliable. The individual numbers, including the family of Jedediah, are retained from the Lee book,—thence forward, they are a continuation of the David branch, as found on page 465, commencing with No. 544, with the children of Elias.

FIFTH GENERATION.

ELIAS AND DESCENDANTS.

Willington. 4th Gen.

14. ELIAS, son of Jedediah, 7, and Lucy (Dodge) Lee, born July 26, 1723, married Sarah Royce Jan. 17, 1744. She died May 5, 1765. He married second, Keziah ——— who died April 26, 1807, aged 91 years. He died Feb. 25, 1795, aged 72 years. The headstones of himself and two wives may be seen at Willington, from which these dates are copied.

His father deeded to him fifty acres of land in Willington in 1744, on which he made his home. He was a joint executor with his mother in the settlement of his father's estate, and appointed guardian to the minor heirs July 3, 1750. He was also administrator to his mother's estate in 1750. He served ten weeks in the French war in 1756, for which he received £2-11-5½.

His name mentioned on page 403 of "John Lee and Descendants," 1897, as having served in the Revolutionary war is, undoubtedly an error, as later discoveries render it quite positive that the service should have been attributed to his son, Elias, Jun., as he was then a young man of military age, while the father was advanced in years. It is also probable that it was the son's name which appeared on the public records of Farmington after the war, as the father died and was buried at Willington, as is shown by his tombstone still standing there. His name is found on the town records in 1751, and again in 1762, and every year thereafter till 1770, in real estate transactions.

From the town records it is found that he was one of the founders of a Baptist church there, but the church entirely disappeared many years ago, and the records also. Children:

547. ELIAS, son of Elias, 14, and Sarah (Royce) Lee, born Feb. 27, 1751,—married Hannah Johnson, May 5, 1773, who died May 16, 1775. He served in the Revolutionary army about Ticonderoga in 1775-6, in the 9th Co. of 4th Conn. Regt., Capt. John Stevens, and also in the regular army from April 27, 1777 to April 27, 1780,—promoted to sergeant Dec. 1, 1777,—was at the battle of Germantown and other engagements. After the war, his name is found on the records of Farmington, from which place he went north into Massachusetts and Vermont, and perhaps to Stanstead. But little seems to have been known of him. He died Sept. 22, 1798.

The repetition of names, as is frequently found, leads to frequent errors. Child :

548. DANIEL, son of Elias, 14, and Sarah (Royce) Lee, born Jan. 20, 1753 at Willington, Conn.,—married Sarah Whittaker Jan. 8, 1777. He marched to the relief of Boston, at the time of the Lexington alarm. During the Revolutionary war, he and his brother Jedediah served in Capt. Jonathan Parker's Co., of Willington,—were in service about New York in the summer and fall of 1776, and at the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28 of that year. This Company served at the Brooklyn front at battle of Long Island, Aug. 27, 1776,—in retreat to New York,—and in retreat from New York, Sept. 15. He was Sergeant of a Company for defense of Lyme, 1779, and was a pensioner under act of 1818. About 1783, he removed to Pittsford, Vt., where the records show several land transfers. He resided there till 1797, when he removed to what is now known as Rock Island, P. Q., just across the national boundary, then a new country, and almost an unbroken wilderness. A few years later, he sold his improvements to his brother Jedediah, and located about six miles farther north in the township of Stanstead, where he was one of the first settlers, and where he resided till his death, July 1, 1806. JEDEDIAH, son of Elias, 14, and Sarah (Royce) Lee, born April 7, 1755, at Willington,—married Elizabeth Wood in 1776, and moved to Pittsford, Vt., where he engaged in farming, —married second, Mary Perry, who died in Jan. 1794, after which he removed to Stonington, Conn., where he married third, Mrs.

Mary Denison Holmes, (widow of Jeremiah Holmes), March 1, 1797. Here he resided a year or two, and then removed to Stanstead, P. Q., where his brother Daniel had preceded him. It is said that he drove 90 fat hogs from Sharon, Vt., to Stanstead. He purchased of his brother Daniel a tract of land on which he made his home, and on which is now located the village of Rock Island. The tract contained 400 acres, and the homestead is still occupied by his descendants. (1899.) During the Revolutionary war, he and his brother Daniel served in Capt. Jonathan Parker's Co. of Willington. His war record was similar to that of his brother's,—they were in and about New York in the summer and fall of 1776, and in the battle of White Plains, Oct. 28, 1776. He died,—date unknown. Jason's early life was spent on the homestead farm, sometimes teaching school during the winter after reaching the proper age, having been properly qualified at the academy in his native village.

At the age of 22 he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and in the autumn of 1828 entered the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, Mass., under the presidency of Dr. Wilbur Fiske. Although a Canadian by birth, his entire line of American ancestors, of whom he was the sixth generation, were natives of Connecticut, except the first English immigrant in 1634. Bishop Baker, who was then one of his fellow students, afterward remarked of him that "he was a large, athletic young man, six feet and three inches in height, with a fully developed frame, and a constitution of iron." His inclination was strongly drawn towards mission work, and he subsequently engaged in Indian mission labors under direction of the M. E. Church of Canada.

Early in 1833 it was determined by the American M. E. Board of Missions to send out an expedition to Oregon to establish a mission among the Indians of that almost unknown region, and with great unanimity Rev. Jason Lee was called from Canada to lead the expedition, and become superintendent of the mission.

On July 17, 1833, it was officially announced that Rev. Jason Lee had been appointed missionary to the Flat Head Indians. The name was subsequently changed to Oregon Mission.

Resigning his charge in Canada, he responded to the call, and in the summer of that year was ordained in Boston, and united with the N. E. Conference. His nephew, Rev. Daniel Lee, also a Canadian by birth, was appointed his assistant.

At that time there were but two ways of reaching Oregon,—one, by a voyage of several months around Cape Horn,—the other by a journey of several months across the continent, the route of which was then an unexplored wilderness, inhabited by wild beasts, and wild Indians, few of whom had ever seen a white man.

The latter route was decided upon, and early in March, 1834, they left New England for Fort Independence, on the western frontier of Missouri. They were joined by two laymen, Cyrus Shepherd and P. L. Edwards, the party of four being provided with nine horses for riding and packing their outfit. They also drove a couple of cows for their use. At this point they also joined a hunting and trapping party in the employment of a fur company, and on the 24th of April set forth on their long and perilous journey, which was to continue more than five months, either through a trackless wilderness with the compass for their only guide, or following a narrow Indian trail. Their route, including the meanderings which they were compelled to follow was fully two thousand miles. They toiled over arid and alkali deserts, broad prairies, and precipitous mountains, threaded dark and intricate mazes of tangled forests, forded rapid and treacherous streams, swam rapid currents to explore for a safe crossing, and amid all these lurked dangers seen and unseen. They encountered herds of buffaloes and were ever on the alert for the wily red man. It so happened that they pursued nearly the same route as that pursued, a few years later, by Gen. Fremont on his famous exploring expedition when he became noted as the great path-finder. Indeed, if the incidents of their journey could be collected and written out, they would read like romance.

Their usual camping ground was some river bottom, where there was grass, their horses staked out to feed, their tents pitched for the night, when each man took his turn to stand guard to prevent surprise from the Indians or from any other source. Each man carried a rifle fastened to his saddle bow, either for protection, or for killing game for their sustenance. One night, seven days' journey from Independence their horses became stampeded and most of them broke loose; with those remaining, they were overtaken and secured.

Their usual day's journey was about twenty miles, halting a short time at noon, and halting and pitching their tents early at night, that their horses might feed before dark. They killed several antelopes which added to food supplies.

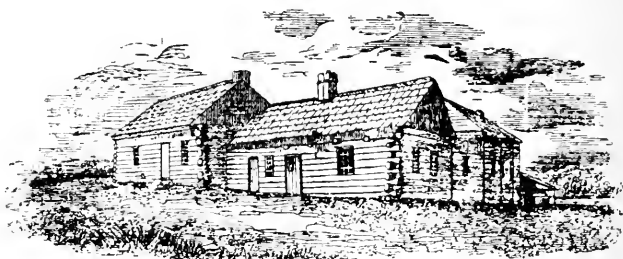

On the 20th of June, they reached a rendezvous of the American Fur Co., on Kansas Fork. Here they halted till the 2nd of July to allow their jaded animals to recruit, then continuing their journey to Fort Hall, which they reached on the 15th and again halted till the 20th. At this place, an Indian presented to Rev. Jason, a fine horse. His had become much jaded, and a horse was very acceptable. He made some suitable presents in return. Many Indians were met on their journey. Their march now continued uninterruptedly till they reached Fort Walla Walla on the Columbia River, the first day of September.

Leaving their horses here, after a stop of three days, they proceeded down the river in canoes, and after a tedious voyage of eleven days arrived at Fort Vancouver Sept. 15th, and the following night slept under a roof, the first time for 152 nights.

Giving themselves but three days' rest, they were off on an exploring expedition from which they returned after an absence of ten days, but still undecided where to locate.

On Sunday following, Oct. 19, and just fifty years after the organization of the M. E. church at Baltimore on the Atlantic seaboard, JASON LEE, set up her banners on the shores of the Pacific. Here he preached to a mixed company of hunters and trappers, half breeds and Indians,—the first Protestant sermon ever listened to west of the Rocky Mountains.

THE MISSION HOUSE AFTER ITS ENLARGEMENT.

Before leaving Boston, supplies had been purchased and shipped by a trading vessel around Cape Horn, and they had now arrived in the Columbia River. A site for the mission had been selected 75 miles up the Willamette River, and after incredibly hard labor by boat, the goods were safely landed at their destination early in October. Having no shelter for themselves or goods, they proceeded to build a log house 18x32 feet. The rainy season was just commencing and rain fell in torrents, while they were compelled to labor under the greatest discomfort. By the first of November, they succeeded in moving both themselves and their goods under a friendly shelter.

A mission school was soon established and Indian children collected, and during the winter of 1834-'5 they were engaged in teaching, and in improving their house, which they had occasion to double in dimensions.

As spring opened, they found it necessary to provide for future wants, by cultivating the ground, which, in a crude way, they accomplished. In the fall they gathered a good crop of wheat, peas, barley and potatoes, which, with six barrels of salmon, purchased of the Indians, furnished a fair supply for the following year.

By persevering labor of the whole band the mission flourished, and the school increased in numbers and efficiency. They had no time for idleness, many tedious horseback journeys were to be made, and many voyages on the river in canoes, to explore the region around about them, always camping out and enduring many hardships.

In September, 1835, the whole mission family suffered severely from intermittent fever. Rev. Jason suffered a third attack, and in a very reduced state was compelled to make a journey of two days to Vancouver to obtain medical aid. He returned after an absence of five weeks, but still in a feeble condition.

In February, previous, he had solicited reinforcements from New York, and in compliance with his request, a company of eight assistants sailed from Boston in July, 1836, five of whom were ladies. They reached Columbia River, via. Cape Horn and Sandwich Islands, in May, 1837.

This company was hailed with great satisfaction by the four lonely brethren, who had hitherto composed the entire mission force, the more so as they were thenceforth to be cheered by the presence and sympathy of intelligent ladies from their own country. They had long before found that "it was not good for man to be alone," and this addition to their numbers was highly appreciated, as the sequel will show. In September, they received another reinforcement materially strengthening their little band.

The mission, however, was not without its little romance. On Sabbath, July 16, 1837, nearly all the white people in the Willamette Valley, besides many Indians, had gathered in a beautiful grove to witness an interesting ceremony, at which Rev. Jason led to the altar Miss Anna Maria Pittman, a lady of fine literary taste and of much refinement. They were the first white couple known to have been married in Oregon.

Mr. Shepherd, at the same time, took to himself, Miss Downing, both ladies being late arrivals. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Daniel Lee. Sabbath services were then conducted by Rev. Jason. A few weeks later Rev. K. W. Perkins, who had come out in one of the late reinforcements, was married to Miss Johnson. Thus three of the ladies of the mission had been provided for, and two of the four original band who journeyed across the continent, also.

In March, 1838, so largely had all their operations increased, that it was decided, unanimously, at a general consultation, that Rev. Jason should re-cross the continent, and solicit further aid in reinforcements and supplies, and interest the churches generally, in the work.

In the early part of April Mr. Lee took his departure on his second trip over the long trail across the country. Late in August, he had reached the Shawnee mission near Westport, Mo., (now within the corporate limits of Kansas City) and had retired after the day's weary ride. In the dead of night, he was aroused by the arrival of a messenger who had been sent to overtake him, and had been sixty days on the journey. A package of letters was placed in his hands, one of which foretold gloomy news. It contained intelligence of the death of his wife,—the bride of a little more than a year. She had given birth to a son, and a few days later both mother and infant had died and had been buried in the same grave.

At the time of this marriage there were but four ladies at the mission and the occurrence made a deep impression upon the natives as well as upon the little community.

With a heavy heart he pursued his journey, arriving at New York in November, 1838. Soon after, the Mission Board held a meeting to consider his report, and the object of his return to the States. The Board not only granted his request, but went far beyond, and prepared to send a force of thirty-six adults,—professionals, and mechanics.

About this time, the Hudson Bay Fur Co., a British company, had expressed an intention to take, and retain permanent possession of the territory, for the benefit of the British crown, although the territory was strictly within the limits of the United States. On this subject, Mr. Lee held several interviews with President Van Buren, and other high officials, giving them valuable information, and so deeply did he impress them with the importance of his enterprise, that the President made an appropriation of several thousand dollars in its aid from the secret service fund.

During the several months required to prepare for sailing with his company, he traveled extensively over the eastern and middle states, and as far south as Charleston, interesting the people and the churches on the Oregon question.

In the meantime, so alarming had become the apparent intentions of the fur company, that Dr. Marcus Whitman of the Presbyterian mission, became intensely aroused, and subsequently made a trip across the continent, in mid-winter, to advise the government of what movements were being made,—a trip which has become famous in history. Mr. Lee and Mr. Whitman were familiar with each other, and their families were on intimate terms in Oregon.

On the evening of the 9th of October, 1839, a party of fifty-four persons, sixteen of whom were children, set sail from New York on the ship Lausanne, one of the largest sailing craft of that time, with Rev. Jason Lee in charge of this missionary band. This was the largest expedition of the kind which had ever left our shore. In the company, were nineteen ladies. Not all the company, however, were destined for Oregon, as several of them were sent out by the Presbyterian Board to the Sandwich Islands.

Storms were encountered from time to time, and sea-sickness prevailed. On the 9th of December they touched at Rio Janeiro, after having been out of sight of land, fifty-nine days. Here they remained till the 14th.

Nearing Cape Horn, they encountered a most fearful storm and were driven back and out of their course, during which they suffered the greatest inconvenience, requiring no little tact and perseverance on the part of Mr. Lee to cheer up his band with the prospect of a more prosperous voyage within a few days. In consequence of these delays, they were sixteen days late in arriving at Valparaiso in Chili, at which port they touched to renew their supplies.

From this place they sailed direct to the Sandwich Islands, where several passengers were to be landed. Smooth sailing was experienced, and no noteworthy event occurred till they arrived at the Columbia River in Oregon, June 1, 1840, having been nearly eight months on a voyage of 22,000 miles.

The mission prospered with the new reinforcements, and its operations were much extended. In 1843, it again became necessary for Mr. Lee to visit the States, to promote the civil and religious welfare of Oregon. His second wife had died the year previous leaving an infant daughter, from whom he was to be separated, never to meet her again.

He sailed on January 31, and reached the Sandwich Islands after a voyage of twenty-four days. In order to shorten his voyage from the Islands, he took passage on a Hawaiian schooner, and landed at San Blas on the Mexican Coast, April 6, 1844, and pursued his journey. His route was by diligence, a lumbering, Mexican vehicle, via. Guadlajara (Wad la-har-ra), to the City of Mexico. At that time the relations between the United States and Mexican governments were much strained on account of the agitation of the subject of the annexation of Texas, to the States. At the former city, all his papers were taken from him, including his journal, which he had kept during his missionary labors, and himself threatened with imprisonment. He was finally permitted to proceed on his journey to Vera Cruz. From that port he sailed for New Orleans,—proceeding thence by river steamer and stage, he arrived at New York, May 27, 1844.

During the same summer, he was in Washington presenting the case of Oregon to the administration. It was during the Presidential campaign of that year, and the excitement on the Oregon boundary question, when the great cry was, "Fifty-four Forty, or Fight!"—claiming $54^{\circ} 40'$ as the northern boundary of Oregon. He was able to give much valuable information on the subject, and his reception by the President, was most cordial.

From this time onward, his health began to fail, and his frame, though strong and robust, was compelled to yield to disease. In August following, his impaired health compelled him to desist from all labor, and seek an asylum among friends at the old homestead.

We pass over several months intervening, as the sketch has already become lengthy.

From this time he dictated letters to his friends, the last of which bore date Feb. 8, 1845, and on March 12th he quietly passed away in the room in which he was born, and his remains lie sleeping in the village cemetery of his native town.

That Rev. Jason Lee and his assistants, Rev. Daniel and their party were the first American pioneers and settlers of Oregon, will be readily conceded. They opened the way for American enterprise, and settlement of the country, and improved their opportunity. Their first occupation of the soil, was by the erection of a log house, near the site of what is now the beautiful city of Salem, the Capitol of the State. Other sites were selected for branch missions, which have since become prosperous cities, showing the wisdom and foresight of the founders. From these early mission schools of 1834, have sprung various institutions of learning, and among them the Willamette University, one of the noted institutions on the Pacific Coast. Let posterity do justice to the founders.

Fifty years later, in 1884, this institution held its first semi-centennial jubilee, which was a proud moment for the M. E. church in Oregon, and the friends of JASON LEE. Though a Canadian by birth,—born almost within hailing distance of the American boundary,—he was a thorough New Englander by blood, and inherited a strong attachment for her institutions and interest. He spoke French fluently, which gained him a ready access to French Canadians and half-breeds.

That his memory is held in high esteem by the M. E. church in Oregon, is not only evident from personal observation by the writer, but by a tablet on the front of an elegant brick edifice in Salem, bearing the inscription, "M. E. church. Founded in Oregon by Rev. Jason Lee, 1834."

"That loyal old pioneer, Rev. Jason Lee, chief of the Methodist mission in Oregon, visited Washington in 1838, and forcibly presented the condition of the country and its dangers. With funds contributed by generous friends, he succeeded in taking back with him, quite a delegation of actual settlers, for Oregon, but neither Congress nor the people were aroused."—"How Marcus Whitman Saved Oregon." By Oliver W. Nixon, D. D., p. 45.

"The Methodists sent the Lees in 1834, and the American Board, Presbyterian, tried to find the right man to accompany them, but failed,—in 1835 they sent Whitman."—Ibid., p. 63.

"Jason Lee, chief of the Methodist mission, * * * was the most successful of all. A man of great strength of character * * * a man of great physical strength, fearless, and with it all, wise and brainy."—Ibid., p. 100.

"Mr. Lee was not a man to think of personal danger or hardship when great interests were to be served."—Hist. Oregon Missions.

Numerous other quotations might be made from other works in which they are mentioned in complimentary terms, but we forbear. For the main facts we have drawn liberally from "Wild Life in Oregon," and "Ten Years in Oregon."

It is a source of honest and creditable pride, to his friends and kindred to know that his memory is justly esteemed by those who know most of his labors.

The grave of Anna Maria Pittman, wife of Rev. Jason Lee, lies within a small inclosure, sacred to the memory of early missionaries, in "Lee Mission Cemetery," located on a slight eminence on the prairie, near, and over looking the beautiful valley of the Willamette, the vision bounded by ranges of low hills which add to the romance of the scene. It is marked by a plain marble slab, on which is the following inscription :

"Beneath this sod,
the first broken in Oregon,
for the reception of White Mother and Child, lie the remains of
ANNA MARIA PITTMAN,
Wife of
REV. JASON LEE,
and her infant son.
She sailed from New York, July 1836.
Landed in Oregon June 1837.
Was married July 16,
and died
July 26, 1838,
Aged 36 Years.

A single rose bush of the sweet briar order blooms on her grave and sheds its fragrance on the air, a fit emblem of the purity of the occupant beneath the slab.

By the politeness of Rev. George Grannis, pastor of the M. E. church at Salem, the writer was driven out to the spot on the 18th of June 1898, a most lovely day. A few sprigs of wild rose and ferns were plucked and sent to the near friends of Rev. Jason Lee.

EIGHTH GENERATION.

Oregon. Caldwell, Kan. 7th Gen.

580. REV. DANIEL, son of Elias, 560, and Rhoda (Morrill) Lee, born at Stanstead, July 1, 1806; married at Fort Vancouver, Oregon, June 11, 1840, Maria Taylor Ware, daughter of Capt. Benjamin and Martha Ware of Gilson, N. H., where she was born, Oct. 7, 1812.

His early life was spent on the homestead farm. Subsequently he attended the Grammar school at Peacham, Vt., and, later, Stanstead Academy, and the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, Mass. He also taught school several terms,—was licensed as an exhorter by the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1827,—in 1831 was admitted to the New England Conference, and filled appointments at Hartland and Putney, Vt., and at Goshen, N. H.

In 1834 he was ordained elder by the Baltimore Conference, and the same year appointed assistant to his uncle, Rev. Jason Lee, on the Oregon Mission. Starting from Independence, Mo., April 24, 1834, he crossed the continent with Rev. Jason and his party, with pack horses, ten years before the first wagon train was attempted, arriving at Fort Walla Walla on the Columbia River, on the first day of September following, and on the sixth day of October, 1834, the party broke ground for the first Protestant mission west of the Rocky Mountains, near the spot on which now stands the beautiful city of Salem, capital of Oregon.

For nearly ten years he labored in the mission and was closely identified with Rev. Jason Lee, and an account of the labors of one necessarily includes much of the labor and privation of the other, in their attempt to establish the first mission in Oregon. During these years he traveled more than 11,000 miles in open canoes on the rivers, besides making many long and tedious journeys on horseback, camping with the red men of the forest and enduring the same privations. Explorations were to be made, Indians to be interviewed, and often, their hostility and superstition to be encountered, the necessities of the mission were to be provided for, and ground to be cultivated for that purpose by their own hands. One winter, wheat for thirty souls was carried twelve miles to mill on pack horses, through the rain and mud. Sometimes they had pounded their wheat, and at other times had boiled it.

Although establishing a mission and devoting their principal attention to that purpose, they also explored and studied the nature and resources of the country, with a design to future settlement and civilization, and subsequent history proves that their judgment on many subjects to be developed, was well founded.

Once, having occasion to leave the mission for an absence of one week with a party of Indians, to obtain a few cattle for the mission farm, the difficulties of the journey, over high mountains, down precipices, through dense forests, and rapid streams to be forded, prolonged the time twice as long as anticipated. Provisions became exhausted, and after suffering from hunger, they were obliged to kill a poor jaded horse, on which they subsisted till they arrived among a tribe from whom provisions could be obtained, having consumed the last morsel of their horse beef on that day.

On some occasions his duties required him to spend six months among the tribes without sight of a pale face, and his adventures among them were often thrilling. An Indian boy was once received into the mission school, and died a few months later. A few days after his death, his brother, moved by some superstition that the white men had in some way been the cause of his death, came to the mission determined to seek revenge by taking the life of Mr. Lee and another missionary, and was prevented only by the intervention of a friendly Indian who accompanied him. Bent upon wreaking his vengeance on somebody, he rushed upon a band of unarmed Indians and killed several of them before his fury could be restrained.

An instance is related of his coolness in an emergency. On their journey across the continent in 1834, the party drove several cows. On one occasion, after camping for the night, while he was milking, an alarm was given of the approach of a band of wild Indians at a furious gallop, and he was warned to seek safety. when he exclaimed, "by the will of God, I propose to relieve this cow," and continued his milking. Fortunately, they proved to be friendly Indians.

He frequently suffered from sickness, and once was obliged to go to Fort Vancouver, ninety miles distant, for medical aid. Receiving no material benefit, he sailed for the Sandwich Islands in the fall of 1835, returning in August, 1836, much improved in health, and bringing $250 which had been contributed by the natives for the benefit of the Oregon mission.

On the 16th day of July, 1837, Mr. Lee conducted services of a very interesting nature, in a pleasant grove of fir trees in front of the mission house, at which he united three couples in marriage, one of which was Rev. Jason Lee and Miss Anna Maria Pittman.

In 1838 he opened a branch mission at the Dalles, on the Columbia River, and built the first house where that city now stands. Within a couple of years he had the satisfaction of witnessing a revival among the Indians, extending 50 to 75 miles along the river, in which it was estimated that nearly 1,000, in the country round about, professed a change of faith and practice.

In 1840 he was united in marriage with Miss Maria T. Ware, who had been appointed by the M. E. Board as a teacher in the mission. She arrived in Oregon in May of that year, after a perilous voyage in a sailing vessel around Cape Horn, and from that time became identified with the mission as a most efficient helper. She was a graduate of the seminary at Newberry, Vt.,—a woman of sterling qualities, and of more than ordinary ability.

Nor did she escape the perils and adventures incident to a missionary life, often accompanying her husband on long and tedious journeys through the wilderness. On one occasion she barely escaped drowning, by clinging to the mane of her horse while he swam out of deep water. She was alone, and had intended to cross the stream at the ford, but had mistaken the path.—Ten Years in Oregon, p. 259.

On another occasion she rode in haste a mile and a half to give an alarm at the conduct of a band of Indians, but by the firmness of the little party of whites they were driven off.—Ibid, p. 243.

After ten years of unremitting toil and hardship, Mr. Lee's health had suffered to such an extent that he found it prudent to withdraw from mission work. His wife's health had also become much impaired. Accordingly, he resigned from the mission, in 1843, spent some time at the Sandwich Islands, and after another tedious voyage in a sailing vessel, around Cape Horn, arrived, with his family at Boston in March, 1844. Soon after his return he published a work entitled, "Ten Years in Oregon," giving much of his own experience and containing many thrilling sketches.

From 1844 to 1851 he preached in the New Hampshire Conference. In the latter year, he moved to Wilbraham Mass.,—thence to Hillsboro, Ill., in 1857, where he resided twenty years. About 1877 he removed to Caldwell, Kan., where, after a residence of fifteen years, his home was broken up by the death of his wife, which occurred July 4, 1892, in the 80th year of her age.

During all these years of active service, he became known and venerated as "Father Lee," and had been ably sustained by his gifted wife, who had also acquired the appellation "Mother Lee."

In February, 1895, Mr. Lee was injured by a fall while stepping from the train, from which he never recovered. He died at the home of his son, Rev. Albert B. Lee, at Hennessey, Oklahoma, July 22, 1895, aged 89 years.

He kept a journal of his experience for many years, and was the writer of many poems of much merit, and maintained an extensive correspondence to the last.

In stature Mr. Lee was nearly six feet high, strong and muscular, with strong will power and nerve to carry him through the perils which it became his lot to encounter, and though he was called to pass through many domestic trials and afflictions, he was never known to murmur. Children :

In his younger years, he taught school in his native town, and later, was publisher of the "Frontier Sentinel."

In the Canadian rebellion of 1837, he, with a company of his neighbors, was arrested by a party of twenty British soldiers, at the instigation of government officials, charged with being a sympathizer of the patriots. He was confined in prison six months without a hearing, then liberated on bail, but never brought to trial.

During the removal of the Cherokee Indians by the U. S. government to their destination in Indian Territory about 1835-38, he had charge as conductor of one division.

In 1849 he went to California via Panama, became sick at San Francisco, was placed aboard a vessel and landed on the coast of South America, with little or no means—eventually made his way to New Orleans, thence to Montgomery, Ala., where he engaged in teaching, two years, thence to Canada. Some years later he removed to the vicinity of Independence, Mo., locating at what has since been known as Lee's Summit.

During the Confederate war, his house was visited by a band of guerrillas for whom his wife prepared an ample meal, while he was conveniently "sick in bed." They said grace over the meal and stole a pair of boots as they went out. He removed to Seaman, Kan., in 1888—became postmaster at that place—Died

She had received a liberal education, studying both in Canada and Vermont, was skilled in music, both vocal and instrumental, and excelled in drawing and painting—was passionately fond of art from a child—was also proficient in modern languages, and mathematics.

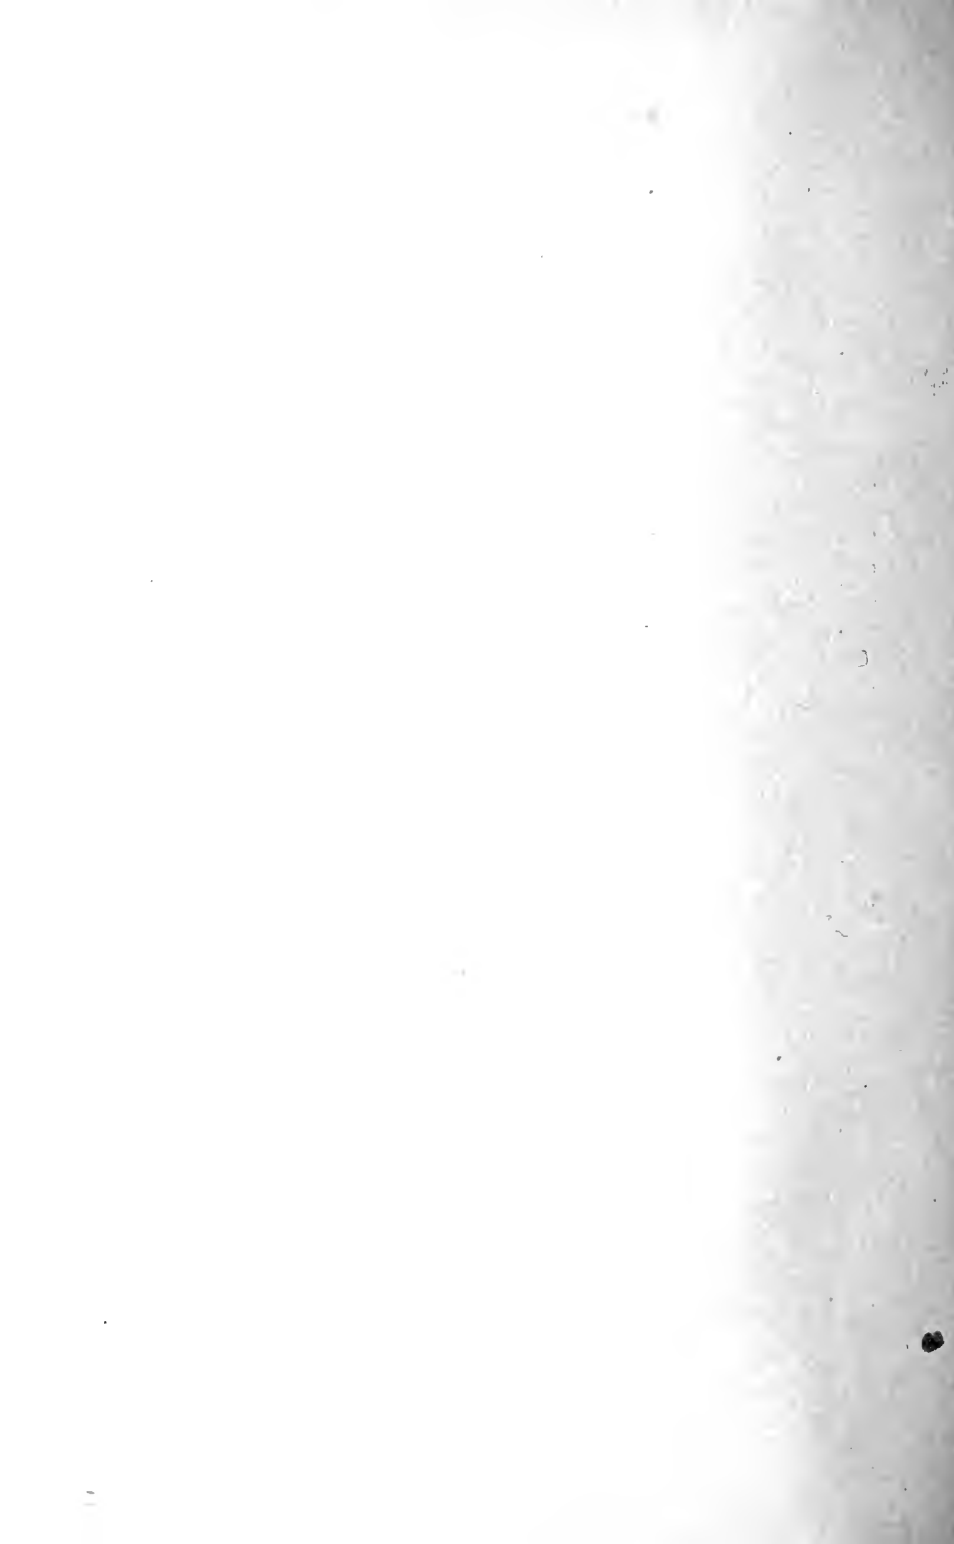

At the age of 18, during the political disturbances in the country, he was arrested by British soldiers as a suspected sympathizer with the patriots of the day. An attempt was made to compel him to testify against his neighbors, which he refused to do—was imprisoned a few days and released.

He taught school occasionally, and remained at the homestead till 1842, then entered the M. E. Theological Institute, at Newberry, Vt.—continued his studies at the Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Conn., in 1844,—worked his way through his course of three years mainly by his own efforts, graduating in 1847, $300 in debt—went to Georgia soon after, where he readily secured an eligible position as principal of an institution at a liberal salary, and, at the close of his first year, had cancelled his indebtedness with flattering prospects before him.

In 1848, he was ordained at Augusta, Georgia, but chose teaching as his profession—held many prominent positions in the schools of the Southern states, and among them, Professor of Ancient Languages in the Female College, at Oak Bowery, Alabama—for several years was President of the Masonic College, at Auburn, Ala., and later, sustained the same relation to the Whitworth College for Young Ladies, at Brookhaven, Miss.

At the breaking out of the Civil War, he had been a resident of the Southern states fourteen years, and, being a native of Canada, was considered either a neutral or a Confederate sympathizer. On one occasion he was called upon to address a company of volunteers, departing for the seat of war in high spirits. He informed them that they “must not expect an easy conquest, for they had a formidable enemy to contend with, as he well knew—an enemy of strong nerve and sinew, reared to labor and self-reliance, and would require many hard blows before being overcome”—words which proved prophetic.

In 1870 Mr. Lee became connected with the firm of J. W. Burke & Co., a Methodist book and publishing house at Macon, Ga., in which he continued several years. In 1886 he was appointed warden for the city of Atlanta, and clothed with unusual powers for a single officer. In this position he remained two years, when his arduous duties becoming too severe, and his health becoming impaired, he retired from all public duties, and in 1890 took up his residence at University Place, Los Angeles, Cal., which is still his home (1899).

During his professional life, Mr Lee was most ably assisted by his gifted wife, she teaching in the departments of music, modern languages, art, etc., and making her influence felt for the benefit of her pupils. Children :

He graduated at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., in 1848, and spent 17 years in teaching in academies and colleges in Alabama—taught at Jasper, Ala., during the Civil War, unmolested on account of any political opinion."

After the war, the family removed to Illinois, where he taught five years in the public schools,—removed to Corning, Mo., in 1872, where he lived 22 years. "He was a local preacher, and of a modest and retiring disposition." He died Aug. 22, 1894. 594. WILLIAM LEWIS, son of Henry, 561, and Sarah (Davis) Lee, born Oct. 26, 1814, at Stanstead, married Deborah P. Sears, at Moline, Ill., May 1, 1842. She born at Gallatin in 1824,—a sister of D. B. Sears, who was once the owner of the greater part of what is at present the site of Moline and Rock Island.

A brief sketch of his life is, perhaps, best given by an obituary notice which appeared in a Chicago paper at the time of his death.

“In early life Mr. Lee learned the tinner’s trade at Burlington, Vt. In 1832, he came to Chicago and found employment in a hardware store. At the end of two years he started out to seek a new location, and finally settled at Rock Island, where he engaged in the hard and tinware business, which proved very successful. In 1854 he was elected to the Illinois Legislature from the Rock Island district on the Republican ticket,—was principal owner of the first bank organized in Rock Island.

“In 1860 he went to Colorado and located Gregory gold mines, which were among the first established in the State. The venture proved to be profitable. Disposing of his interest in these, he organized the Black Hawk Mining Co., and started the town of Black Hawk. Retaining an active interest in the mines, Mr. Lee returned to Chicago in 1865, with a large fortune, invested in real estate and retired from active business in 1869.

“For many years during his residence in Chicago, he was an elder in the Third Presbyterian Church, and during his residence in Rock Island, was instrumental in founding a church of that denomination there. When Farwell Hall was erected in Chicago, he was one of the heaviest subscribers to the institution, and for several terms, officiated as president of its board of trustees, and was widely known as a citizen of Chicago.

“The great fire of 1871 and the subsequent panic inflicted heavy losses upon him, and in 1881, his failing health compelled him to visit various health resorts. For two years he had been a confirmed invalid and in July previous to his decease, was brought from Philadelphia completely prostrated, and died Nov. 26, 1892, at his residence, 182 Warren avenue, aged 78 years.”

In early life he taught school and obtained an education largely by his own efforts,—became a member of the M. E. church at the age of 16,—was a licensed exhorter at an early age,—teaching school week days and preaching on Sundays. “In 1842 he traveled Delaware circuit with a colleague, meeting with success far beyond human expectation, about 500 professing conversion through their ministrations. He was particularly gifted in extemporary preaching, and even eloquent. Five or six years were spent on various circuits. In 1851 he was appointed to Bedford Street Church, then the largest M. E. church in the city of New York. Naturally of a frail constitution, his labors soon proved too severe for his strength, and his system becoming prostrated, he was obliged to retire from the field. He possessed an educated mind, was a logical reasoner, with a style clear and classical, and an eloquent delivery.”

He took up his residence at Ashland, N. Y., where a course of typhoid fever terminated his career Dec. 8, 1857, aged 41 years. His widow was still residing there in 1899. Children :

GRUBBS.

Salem, Oregon. 7th Gen.

662. LUCY ANN MARIA, dau. of Rev. Jason, 574, and Lucy (Thompson) Lee, born at Salem, Oregon, Feb. 26, 1842, married Prof. Francis H. Grubbs, Aug. 1, 1864.

Left motherless in infancy, she was consigned to the care of Rev. and Mrs. Gustavus Hines,—was separated from her father at the Sandwich Islands, as he was returning to the States in 1843, and returned to Oregon with her foster parents. Two years later she left Oregon for the States, with her guardians, via Cape Horn, learning on her arrival that her father had been dead nearly a year.

In 1853 she returned to Oregon across the plains and mountains. Ten years later she graduated at the Willamette University,—an institution which her father had been instrumental in founding, with the degree of M. E. L.—was chosen first Preceptress of the University, a position which she held six years. Herself and husband had been classmates at the University, and for nine years were engaged in teaching together, with marked success.

In 1878 they moved to the Dalles, where he had been called to fill an engagement. Her health began to fail and for two years she continued to decline till she died, April 28, 1881, having been engaged in teaching 15 years.

Prof. Grubbs, her husband, was born at Pittsburgh, Pa., March 24, 1834,—moved to Niles, Mich., at an early age, with his father's family, and at the age of 18 years crossed the country with the great immigration to Oregon in 1852,—returned to the States in 1853, and to Oregon again in 1854, via. the Isthmus of Panama, with his mother and other members of the family. On the isthmus they were attacked by the natives, who made a general assault on all the passengers who went up the Chagres river. This was before the construction of the railroad.

He graduated at the Willamette University in 1863, the degree of A. M. being subsequently conferred, and was engaged in teaching in the University and other institutions in Oregon, till the death of his wife. On account of ill health he accepted a position on the Northern Pacific railroad, as paymaster in the Department of Buildings and Bridges,—was afterwards connected with the Canadian Pacific railway,—spent two years in the fur trade in British Northwestern Territory and subsequently made a tour of the principal eastern cities with his daughter, spending sometime in Boston.

At present,—1899,—he is connected with the Marsh Printing and Publishing Co. at 120 and 122 Front street, Portland, Ore. Child :

NINTH GENERATION.

Hillsboro. Ill. Lacey. Ok. 8th Gen.

686. REV. ALBERT BLANDIN, son of Rev. Daniel, 580, and Maria T. (Ware) Lee, born at the Mission Home in the Willamette Valley, Ore., Sept. 7, 1843, married Mary Lucretia Stout, June 8, 1865, dau. of Rev. John Stout, a Southern Unionist, Ark.

In infancy he arrived at Boston with the family, March, 1844, after a tedious voyage from Oregon, via Cape Horn. After attaining the proper age, he attended the Wesleyan Academy, at Wilbraham, Mass., and in 1857 moved with the family to Hillsboro, Ill. In 1861 he enlisted in Co. E, 1st Ill. Cavalry, and moved to the defense of Lexington, Mo., in which the regiment took part till water was cut off and ammunition exhausted,—surrendered, paroled and soon discharged. Again enlisted in 1862 in Co. F, 126th Ill. Infantry,—saw service at Columbus, Ky., Humbolt, Jackson, Bolivar and La Grange, much of the time serving on scouting parties,—took part in the capture of Vicksburg,—ordered to Helena, Ark., and detailed to help man the guns of the 11th Ohio battery.—took part in the capture of Little Rock,—ordered to Duval's Bluff, where he scouted, fought the enemy, malaria and mosquitoes until ordered again to Little Rock, and thence to Duval's Bluff, and there detailed as clerk in the Medical Purveyor's office. Mustered out of service, June 16, 1865.

After being discharged from service he removed with his father-in-law, Rev. Mr. Stout, to Dover, Ark., where they passed the stormy reconstruction period. On Dec. 4, 1865, while sitting in his own home, Mr. Stout was fired upon by unknown parties and severely wounded. He, with eight others, organized the Republican party in that county, and within one year, five of the nine were ambushed and killed. Feeling that life was unsafe in that region, Mr. Lee returned to Illinois, and later moved to Kansas, thence to Oklahoma, his present home. He became converted during the war and subsequently became a local preacher of the M. E. church,—is also an extensive farmer at Lacey, Ok., (1899). Children :

692. WILLIAM HENRY, son of Rev. Daniel, 580, and Maria T. (Ware) Lee, born Aug. 23, 1855, at Wilbraham, Mass., married, Jan. 29, 1880, Florence Genevieve Smith, born Nov. 11, 1859, at Castile, N. Y. She was a school and music teacher,—dau. of Benjamin F. and Wealthy (Dana) Smith, and grand-dau. of Isaac A. Smith, of Dutchess Co., N. Y.

In 1857 his parents removed to Hillsboro, Ill., where he was educated at the public schools. At the age of 17 he went to Texas,—in 1877 settled in Caldwell, Kas., where he engaged in farming, and, later in the cattle trade,—in 1884 was appointed deputy sheriff and served four years,—appointed cattle inspector by the Cherokee Strip Live Stock Association at Fort Reno, Indian Ter. —removed to Oklahoma at the opening of that territory in 1889. That same year “was converted through the influence of the Salvation Army,—pioneered the work in Guthrie, Kingfisher, Hennessey and Enid with remarkable success,—later engaged in the same work in Wichita and Hutchinson, Kas. Since 1895, has been engaged in evangelistic labor in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, New York, Vermont, and New Hampshire, during which time over 3,000 have professed conversion, in his meetings.” His present home is at Wichita, Kas.

For his success, he has been largely indebted to his gifted wife, who has accompanied him as assistant and musician.

In Jan., 1898, he accidentally saw a copy of the book published by W. W. Lee, Secretary of the Lee Association, in 1884, and was able to give information which led to the discovery of the descendants of Elias Lee of Willington, Conn.,—of which he was one,—a family of whom the kindred in Connecticut had lost all trace for nearly 100 years. He at once took an active interest in tracing them and obtaining their records, and to his efforts they are largely indebted for the production of this work. Children :

Willington, Conn. 4th Gen.

18. JOSIAH, son of Jedediah, 7, and Lucy (Dodge) Lee, born Sept. 27, 1736, married, but the name of his wife has not been ascertained. It has been found that Mary Christophers, whose name is found on the New London records, and mentioned in the Lee book, p. 403, as the wife of this Josiah, was an error. She is supposed to have been the wife of Josiah, son of Dr. Isaac Lee.—See page 170-23, Lee book.

“Josiah and John Lee were taken prisoners on ye schooner Rainbow, April, 1758.”—N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, Vol. 14, p. 273.

We have no means of ascertaining the identity of this John Lee, nor can we be quite positive in regard to Josiah, but we have no other Josiah whose age and other circumstances, seem to warrant his services at sea at that time. His name is found on the pay rolls of Connecticut troops in the French wars.—Received in 1756, £5, 17s. 4d., for twelve weeks and five days' service; also, in 1759, received £15, 3s. 5½d. for thirty-five weeks and five days' service under Captain Moses Hobby on both expeditions. His name is found in the index to the land records of Willington, but the records are dilapidated, and the page referred to is missing. It is believed, however, that he sold his land in that town, and removed to Vermont. His name is found in the Adjutant-General's office of that State, as having served in the militia during the Revolutionary war,—served ten days in Col. Thomas Lee's regiment, Capt. Samuel Williams' company, Rutland, Vt. No further trace of him or his posterity, if he left any, has been found, though diligent researches have been made. Col. Thomas Lee died 1840 at Castleton, Vt.

Willington. 4th Gen.

19. JEDEDIAH, son of Jedediah, 7, and Lucy (Dodge) Lee, born Sept. 20, 1738, married Hannah Fay when quite young and died before the distribution of his father's estate in 1759. His widow married again. “Mrs. Hannah Lee married Samuel Rockwell, 1778.”—Stafford Town Records.

In the petition of the executor of his father's estate, Feb. 9, 1759, he is referred to as "Jedediah, deceased, or his legal representatives." He would not have been quite 21 years of age at that time, and it is inferred that his "legal representatives" might have been his own brothers and sisters, and perhaps his widow. His name is found on the rolls of the Connecticut troops in the French war of 1757, then 19 years of age, but the "Jedediah" found on the Revolutionary records was undoubtedly the son of Elias, 14. See No. 549.

Willington. Windsor, Conn. 4th Gen.

20. OLIVER, son of Jedediah, 7, and Lucy (Dodge) Lee, born Nov. 5, 1740, at Willington, married Abigail Roe, Oct. 4, 1769. He marched to the relief of Boston at the time of the "Lexington Alarm," April, 1775, in Capt. Hayden's company, then a boy 15 years of age. He died previous to the baptism of his youngest son, Oliver, as is found by Stiles' History of Windsor: "Oliver, baptized May 14, 1778, son of Abigail Lee, widow"; copied from the same work are the following names of his children:

5th Gen.

1142	I. ABIGAIL,	born Feb. 23, 1771.
1143	II. JOSIAH,	" Dec. 7, 1772.
1144	III. LEMUEL,	" July 23, 1774.
1145	IV. ANNA SARAH,	" May 30, 1777.
1146	V. OLIVER,	" April 15, 1778.

Land transfers are found on record in Willington—the latest in 1773—hence it is inferred that he left that town soon after.

No date of death or settlement of estate is found on probate records. Diligent research has been made for his descendants, but without success.

FIFTH GENERATION.

Willington, Ct. Hartland, Vt. 4th Gen.

21. ZEBULON, son of Jedediah, 7, and Lucy (Dodge) Lee, born Sept. 23, 1742, at Willington, Conn., married Mary Taylor, at Northfield, Mass. She died March 21, 1810, aged 67 years. Although no record has been found, it is evident that he married again, for in the old cemetery at Hartland, Vt., is found the following inscription: "Mrs. Joanna Lee, second wife of Mr. Zebulon Lee, died June 25, 1825, aged 79 years." He died Jan. 31, 1833, aged 91 years. Their tombstones may all be seen at Hartland. His name is found in Willington town records in 1767, as "late of Coventry, now of Northfield, Mass.," which is evidence of his residence there for a time.

He was in the ill-fated expedition to Havana in the French war in 1762, in which he served with the Connecticut troops, 37 weeks and two days and received therefor £18-12-10½. It is not known at what time he moved from Connecticut to Vermont, but in 1770 his name is found on the records of Hartland, then known as Cumberland county, New York, before the organization of the State of Vermont.

On the second Tuesday of March, 1770, being the third annual town meeting, he was elected overseer of the poor and constable,—the latter then an office of special importance,—was elected to the latter office in 1771-72-73-76-78-79 and 80,—in 1772 was elected "Field Driver," overseer of highways, and fence viewer,—was collector in 1774, surveyor of highways and tithing man in 1775, and was elected to various offices for many years following. He was a member of the North Religious Society when the church was supported by a tax voted at town meeting.

By records in the Adjt.-General's office in Vermont, it is found that he was called into service several times during the Revolutionary war. On general guard duty Oct. 24, 1778. Oct., 1780, "marched to Royalton and Haverhill in the alarm of that year, called the 'Burning of Royalton'—under Capt. Silas Wells. Again on an alarm in March, 1781, under Lieut. Daniel Spooner."

Oliver Millard "of Hartland, Cumberland Co., N. Y." now Hartland, Vt.,—quit claims to Zebulon Lee of same place, fifty acres of land, July 25, 1770, for £12. In this deed he is styled "Zebulon Lee, yeoman." Oliver Millard had also conveyed to him 100 acres, April 7, 1769, for £22,—also 100 acres, April, 1769, for £100. Thomas Richardson conveys to him twenty-six acres for £24, Oct. 6, 1782.

HOUSE OF ZEBULON LEE OF HARTLAND, VT.,
As it appeared in 1899. Supposed to have been built 1770 to 1775.

He conveys to Ruel Taylor, "the farm on which I now live, and have for many years past lived on,"—100 acres,— "in consideration of the natural love and affection which I have and bear to Ruel Taylor and my grand daughter, Lucy Child, both of said Hartland, etc.," Sept. 20, 1825. He was then in his 83d year, his second wife had died in June previous, and tradition informs us that, feeling the infirmities of age, he relieved himself from further care.

NOTE.—Town and family records are often found to be at variance, with no data at hand for correction, consequently the compiler cannot feel himself responsible for the dates given. Tombstones, when accessible, have been copied, and are considered reliable.

Hartland. Darien, N. Y. 5th Gen.

1151. QUARTUS, son of Zebulon, 21, and Mary (Taylor) Lee, born April 18, 1771, at Hartland, Vt., married Keziah Johnson at Willington, Conn., April 5, 1795, born Feb. 7, 1778,—dau. of Capt. John and Sarah (Lee) Johnson, (Sarah Lee was dau. of Elias, 14, and Sarah [Royce] Lee). The record of the Johnson family on page 47 is incomplete. Keziah died July 6, 1813. Quartus married, second, Mrs. Mary (Kiddor) Clark, Oct. 5, 1814, born March 28, 1780, at Sutton, Mass. She died Aug. 29, 1859.

As he married at Willington, it is evident that he lived there till after 1811, and probably as late as 1815, when he moved to Pembroke, or Darien, Genesee Co., N. Y. The names of his children by his first wife, to 1811, are all found on the town records of Willington, as being born there, when the record ends. The tombstones of several of his deceased children may be seen in the cemetery there.

After 1815 his children are mentioned as born at Pembroke, N. Y. His name is found on the Willington records six times, from 1800 to 1815, in connection with land transfers. The tradition is, that his brother, Dr. Elihu, had preceded him to the western part of New York, in Genesee Co., then a new country, and induced him to follow. He died, "March 10, 1830, at Darien, N. Y., at 3.45 o'clock P. M." Children :

JOSIAH, son of Zebulon, 21, and Mary (Taylor) Lee, born July 6, 1775, married Chloe Newell (another says Chloe Stowell), Jan. 6, 1803, born Jan. 6, 1781, "The said Josiah Lee having declared that he took the said Chloe Stowell, (?) entirely destitute of property, even of wearing apparel,—Rachael, the wife of Zebulon Lee, Jr., and Roxana Lee, attending to the latter."—Hartland Town Records.

A relative in later years, writes of her: "Aunt Chloe was a lady and a saint. Paralysis rendered her almost helpless the latter eight years of her life. Up to that time she was witty, bright and vigorous." She died April 10, 1856, aged 75 years.—Tombstone.

Josiah was a farmer at Hartland. He conveyed, April 23, 1845, to Solomon Crandall, husband of his daughter Clarissa G. (Lee), certain real estate, "in consideration of $1.00, and also that s^d Crandall has obligated himself to pay to the guardian of Clara Lee and Henry Lee, minor children of my late son Carlos Lee, $666.66 with interest annually for use and benefit of s^d children, and also to pay to Maria Lee, widow of said Carlos Lee, $333.33 for her own use and benefit, and also to pay to my daughter, Harriett Lee, $300, and also to comfortably support and maintain myself and my wife, Chloe, during our natural lives,—his home, farm, and all his land in Hartland." 1188. ELIAS, son of Josiah, 1153, and Chloe (Newell) Lee, born at Hartland, Jan. 25, 1818, married Maria Mygatt, June 10, 1841,—born in 1826, in Oswego County, N. Y. She died at Marshalltown, Iowa, March 29, 1879, buried at Kenosha, Wis. He married second, Louisa Allison.

At the age of 14 Elias was “bound out,” to which he strenuously objected. He soon “ran away” to Woodstock, Vt., where he engaged as a clerk four years—then went to Georgia and Florida, where he remained till 1839, when he made his way north and “brought up at the little town of Southport,” since known as the city of Kenosha, Wis. Here he again engaged as a clerk for a time, in general merchandising, but soon succeeded to partnership in the business, as Lee & Towslee. The business afterwards became prominent and was carried on as Hale, Lee & Lay for many years. In 1865 he removed to Marshalltown, Iowa, continuing in the same line of business, as Lee & Bromley. At this time (1899), though 81 years of age, he is still in active business—Lee & Benedict—giving his personal attention to his daily routine, making purchases of goods in Chicago, etc., and is still a successful merchant.

About 1846–8 the compiler of this work, then a fellow townsman, compared notes with him on their ancestry, but neither could trace to any kinship, nor was it till 1898 that their line of descent was traced to the same ancestor—John Lee. Children :

1358. CAPT. BYRON L., son of Capt. Gilbert H., 1259, and Sophia J. (Lakin) Bargar, born Jan. 12, 1867, married, Oct. 6, 1896, Florence Neil, dau. of Col. H. M. Neil. He graduated in a course at Yale Law School and has been in partnership with his father in the practice since his admission to the bar in 1893.

In April, 1898, he recruited Troop D, 1st Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, for the Spanish war, and was mustered in as its captain and the regiment sent to camp at Chickamauga for drill and equipment, where they remained several weeks, then ordered to Santiago de Cuba, via. Tampa, Florida, where transports were in waiting. Twelve trains were loaded with troops, horses, baggage, etc. Before reaching Tampa they were ordered into camp 30 miles out, where they remained through the hot season. Typhoid fever broke out, and a large part of the troop was soon in the hospital. In September the troop was ordered to Huntsville, Ala., with Capt. Bargar in command of four troops, with but one-fourth of the men fit for duty. Being taken down with the disease himself, he was reduced to a low stage. His brother, Fred C., sergeant in the same troop, escaped the fever which was so prevalent.

Two members of this troop were sons of veterans who served under command of his father, Capt. Gilbert H. Bargar, in the Confederate war. Mustered out Oct. 23, 1898. Child:

1387. 1. JULIA LAKIN, born Dec. 15, 1897.

ROLL OF HONOR.

A patriotic family may, pardonably, indulge in a little honorable pride, for the number contributed to fill the ranks of the armies of their country. It is believed that our showing will compare favorably with that of other families of similar numbers.

As families became widely scattered, certain it is, that many rendered service which is credited to various states from which we have no records, and certain it is, that full reports would swell the number of our Roll of Honor, in the various wars since the Revolution, to a great extent.

The following names are to be added to those published in the Lee Book of 1897. None are entered unless well authenticated.

Of those serving in the Spanish war, we are quite confident, that that the list would be more than doubled if fully reported.

NOTE.

The publication of this Supplement was entered upon with a gloomy financial outlook, and it was suggested by some that it be deferred to a "more convenient season," but other counsels prevailed and it was decided to appeal to the generosity of kindred for small amounts individually, which, if responded to reasonably, with other resources, would enable the committee to carry the work through.

One enterprising lady suggested that one dollar be collected from each family named in the book. Her plan was approved, and herself named as collector. She collected one dollar from her own family, which she promptly remitted, while other families remain to be heard from !

The appeal to individuals met with a fairly generous response of one to fifteen dollars each, while others ordered several copies of both Lee Book and Supplement for friends, thus aiding the funds and extending the circulation.

Among those who have liberally donated to the funds are the following who are entitled to the thanks of the Lee Association :

COMPLIMENTARY.

Among the numerous complimentary notices of "John Lee and His Descendants" both in the public prints, and in personal letters, the following are selected as specimens :

Hon. Charles A. Hoadley, State Librarian, Hartford, Conn.:

About as fine a thing as I have seen in that line—well arranged, well illustrated and nicely printed and bound.

Miss Emily T. Wilcox,—twenty years Teacher in Miss Willard's School, Troy, N. Y.:

It seems to me an unusually attractive work of the kind. Everything is so clear and simple in arrangement, and the names so well indexed.

Rev. Hamilton Lee, D. D., Martinez, Cal.:

I write to express my satisfaction with the book. The contents are of great value, and the whole work is well put together, and I congratulate you on your success.

Burlington Hawk Eye, Iowa.:

The Lee Genealogy is meeting with unusual success for a work of its nature, and has been voluntarily ordered and paid for at regular rate by many libraries of note, and historical societies throughout the country, and has received many flattering notices from the Press.

Rev. Lucius O. Lee, D. D., Missionary to Turkey:

I have received the book—it is a monument of genealogical industry. It is of permanent value, and I shall not consider my library complete without it.

Miss Susan A. Peck, Teacher of Classics:

The book has more "readableness" than any other Genealogy that I ever came across. It contains items of family history, which were obtained only by the most assiduous research and from sources accessible only to those who were persistent in their efforts.

H. O. Collins, Attorney at Law, Los Angeles, Cal.:

The more I read it, the more I am pleased with it, and the more clearly does it appear what an immense amount of labor has been put into it. I have had some experience in genealogical work and thoroughly appreciate what has been done in its publication. The Lees owe the compilers a world of gratitude for their gratuitous labor.

Rev. F. T. Lee, Pastor Douglass Park Church, Chicago :

I supposed that a Genealogy consisted of a mass of figures and dry details, which no one cared to look at more than once, and am surprised to find a readable book, full of personal sketches, and items of history of the early Lees of two and a half centuries ago, which I never thought of before. The compilers must have ransacked all the musty old records to obtain them.

Charles Avery Lee, Merchant, Denver, Col.:

A month ago, I did not know that I had a living relative bearing the family name, but since receiving the Lee book, I find the "woods are full of them."

Bradner W. Lee, Attorney at Law, Los Angeles, Cal.:

I have examined a copy of this work. It gives evidence of painstaking care and thoroughness in its compilation, and the information which it affords to the members of the family is most valuable and interesting. Its arrangement is satisfactory, and the information sought is easily found,—a book which should be found in the hands of every family.

Meriden Republican—1897:

* * * The whole work shows a vast amount of patience and perseverance and many of its personal sketches read like romance. * * * One remarkable feature is the low price at which it is offered—$5.00 per single copy,—for a work of 600 pages so substantially bound in cloth and gold.

Mrs. Rev. John Blyman, Principal of Public Schools at Oshkosh, Wis.:

* * * I have learned so many things from it about my family and ancestry which I never knew, and there is so much to enjoy and to be proud of, too. * * * It has been a veritable "feast for the soul" to me, and I would not be without it.

Mrs. Graham Lee, former Teacher, Hamlet, Ill.:

We have one copy of the Lee Book in the family and prize it highly. Enclosed, please find draft of $20 for four copies,—one for each of our sons,—amount saved from their pocket money. I want them to study it and learn about their family history which has been collected as the result of so much research. The introductory notes are full of interest, and our sons will ever give it a place on their library shelves.

Rev. John P. Lee, D. D., Los Angeles, Cal.:

* * * I have examined the Lee Book, and find it filled with valuable information, and no member of the family can afford to be without a copy. Instead of being called a Lee Genealogy, it should be styled, "Lee Encyclopædia." A Supplement is being prepared, which will contain the names of several hundred of whom nothing was known when the book was published in 1897,—also many personal sketches of great interest. Both works should have an extensive circulation among the Lees.

N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register, Boston:

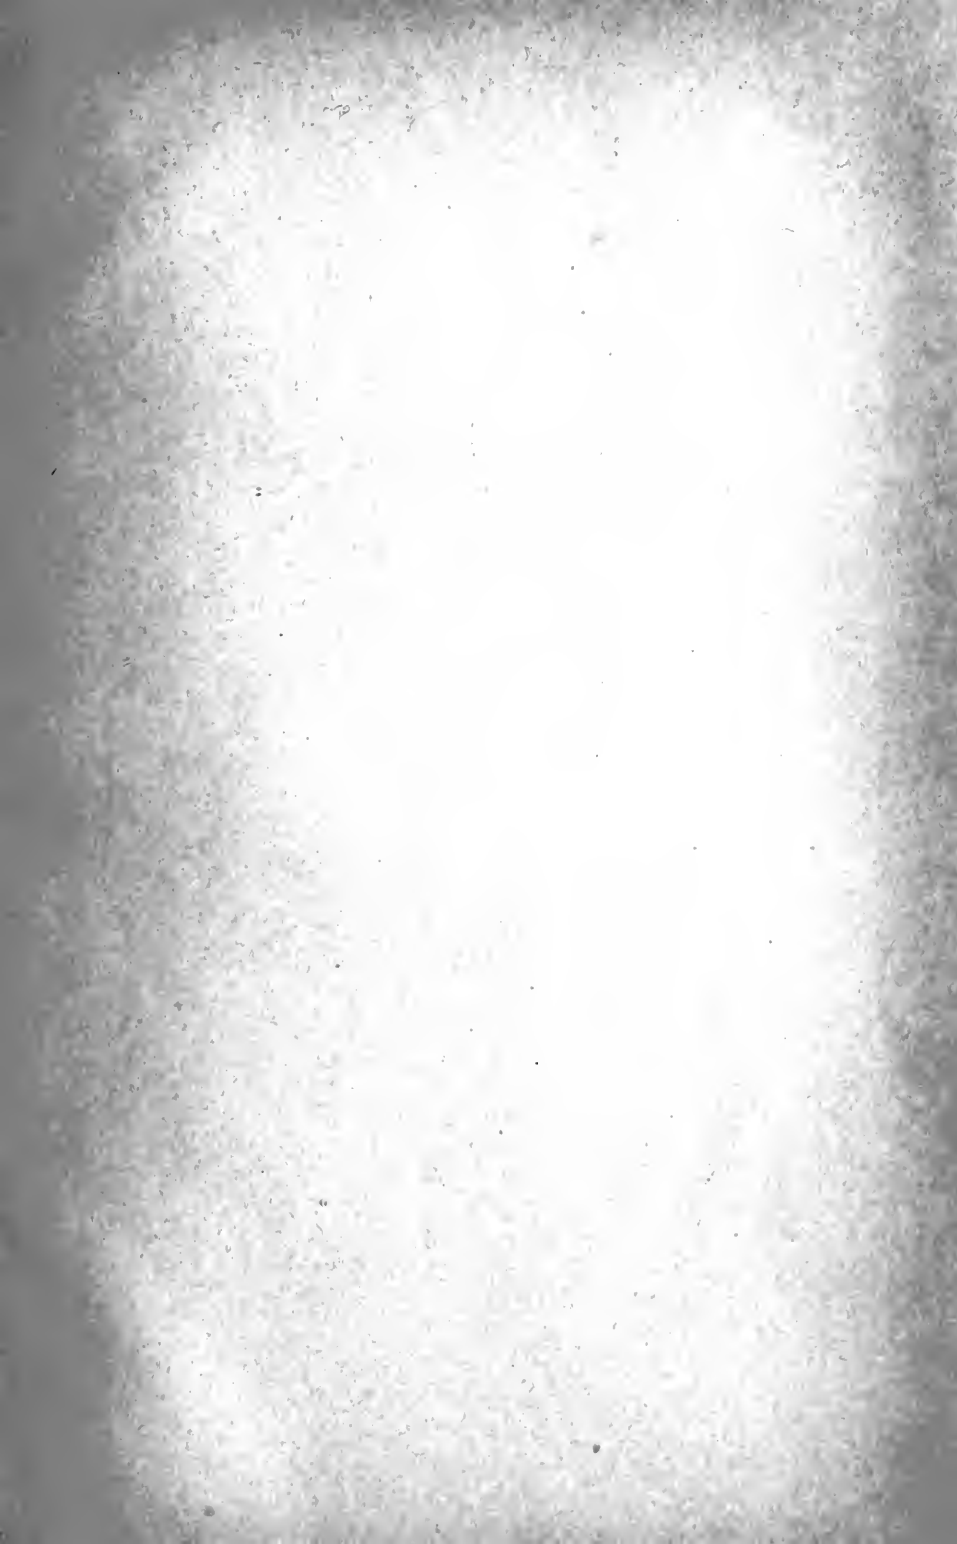

* * * Is well gotten up and so arranged that easy reference may be had to any individual.

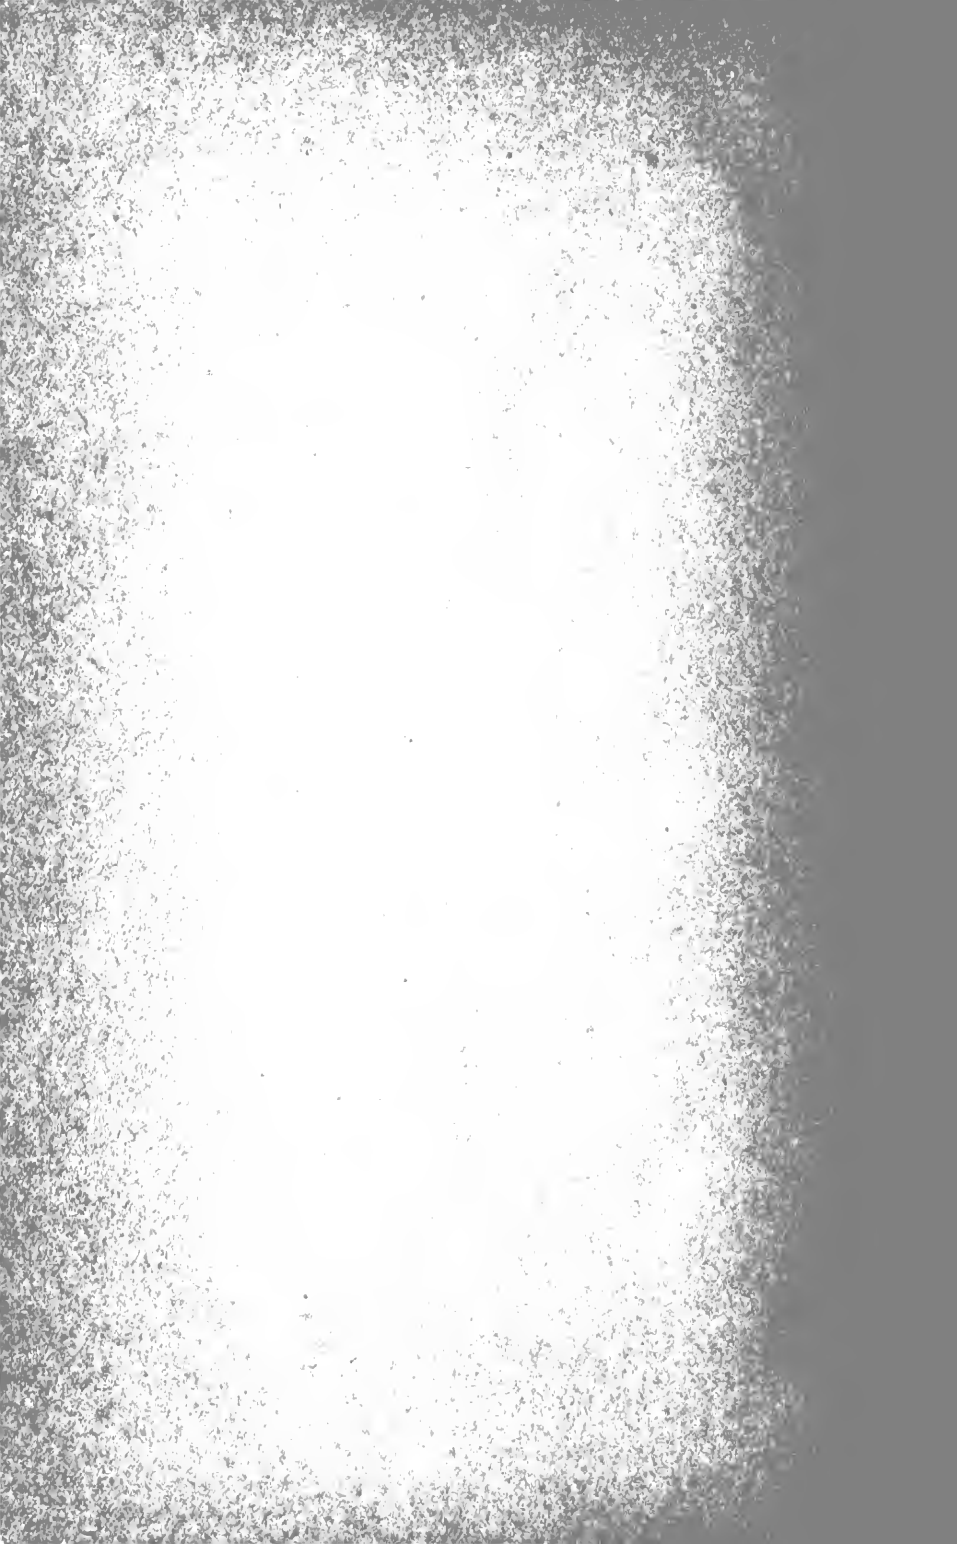

Wesley T. Lee, M. D., Homœopathic Hospital, Boston:

* * * I consider it one of the most complete and satisfactory publications of its character that I ever saw, and reflecting great credit on those who by untiring efforts have accomplished the work. I shall await with great interest the publication of the Supplement,—now nearly ready for the press.

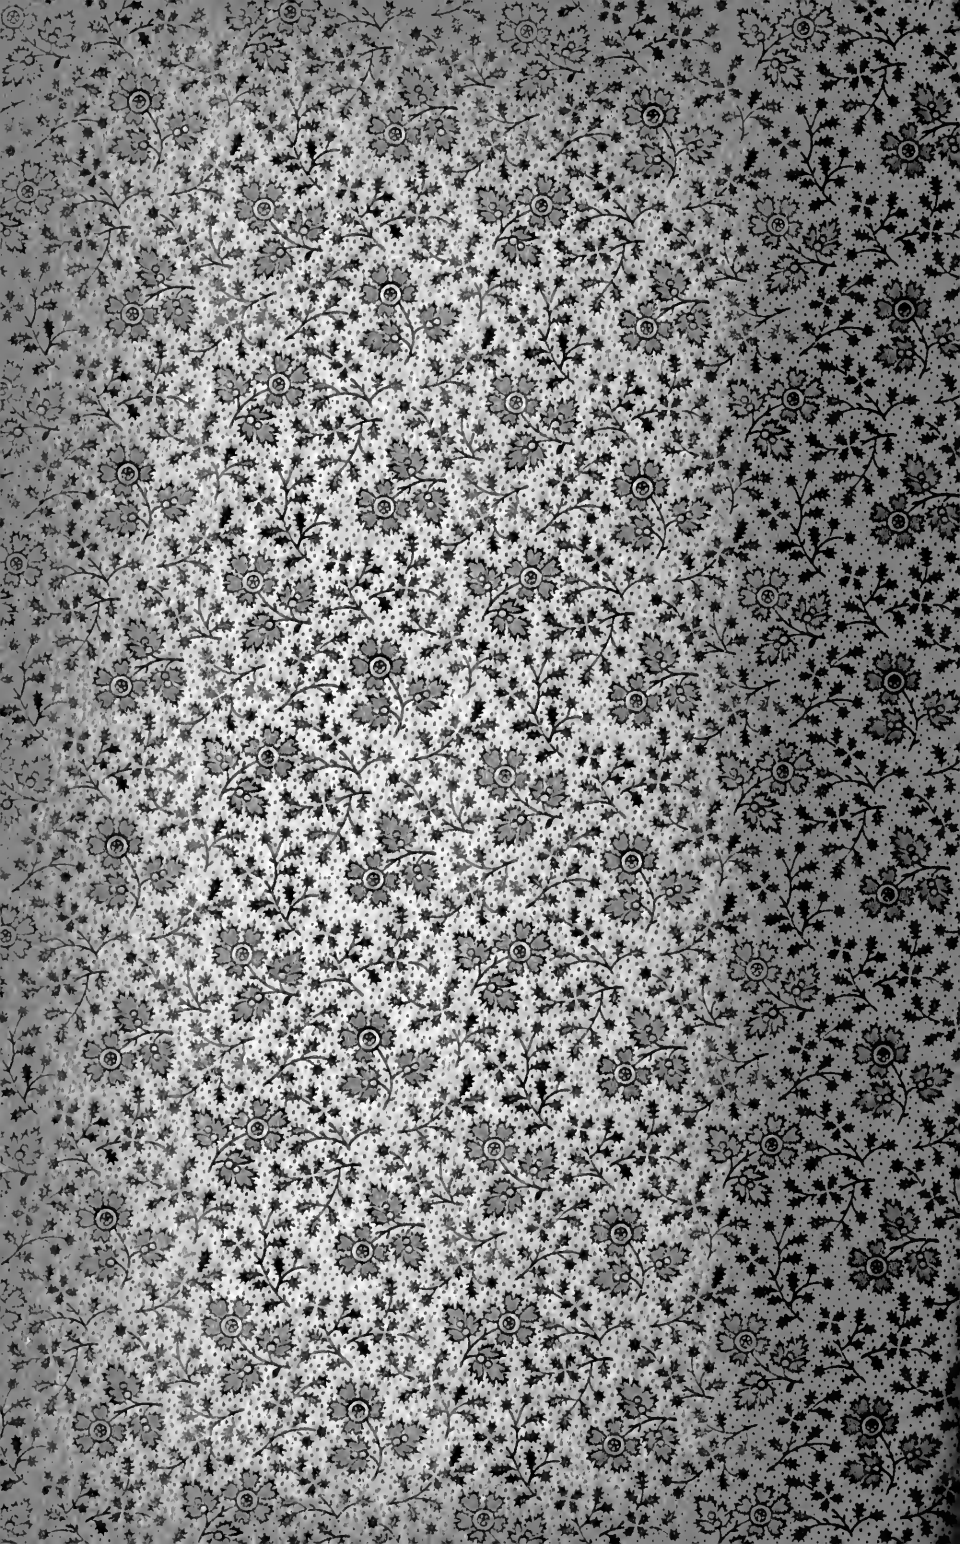

Rev. A. Lee Holmes, Stanstead, Que.:

Permit me to express my surprise and admiration at the vast amount of painstaking labor which a cursory glance through the book reveals.
